

Misc Notes

Miscellaneous notes from talking with painting people at cold wars.

1. The Warstore sells a preformulated wash called DiDi's magic ink (formerly Kel's Magic Sauce) in a couple of different colors. We played with a couple of different washes made from inks, thinned paint, etc. and this really impressed me with its effects.
2. Vallejo's Game Color line was originally GW's paints. GW went off to do their own thing with Citadel, but Vallejo continued the line.
3. Strip miniatures with simple green.
4. Gloss paint seals the miniature so washes don't stick. Don't use them, even by accident.
5. Dawn + Water is good for removing mold release. Make sure to let it dry 24h before priming.
